Welcome from the Director

We shall not cease from exploration/ And the end of all our exploring/ Will be to arrive where we started/ And know the place for the first time (T. S. Elliot, No 4 of Four Quartets, 1942).

Good evening. May we begin with a moment of silence. We wish to acknowledge the land upon which we gather today. These lands were the traditional territory of a number of First Nations bands prior to European contact. The Miami, the Potawatomi, the Peoria and the Kickapoo were some of the last bands to be forcibly removed. These lands carry the memories and stories of resistance of these people, including their struggles for survival and identity in the face of overwhelming colonizing power.

May we pause for another moment of silence and honor the legacies and memories of Sari Knopp Biklen, Gregory J. Dimitriadis and Brian Sutton-Smith. These were lives well lived and well loved. Special sessions starting tomorrow will be devoted to their contributions to qualitative inquiry.

The University of Illinois, the College of Media, the International Center for Qualitative Inquiry, the Institute of Communications Research and the Department of Media and Cinema Studies welcome you to the Eleventh International Congress of Qualitative Inquiry. There are over 1600 presentations involving 2200 people this year, including 350 panels in the general congress alone. More than 250 presentations are given in eight special interest groups -- SIGS in: Autoethnography, Arts-Based Research, Critical Poststructural Psychology, Critical Qualitative Research, Indigenous Inquiries Circle, Spanish and Portuguese, Turkish and Social Work. Over 1300 persons, from more than 70 nations have registered. Over 500 delegates took part in the 29 pre-conference workshops.

The theme of the 2015 congress is “Constructing a New Critical Qualitative Inquiry.” In 2015 the International Congress of Qualitative Inquiry (ICQI) starts its second decade. The first decade of the Congress capped a century and more of efforts by qualitative researchers to understand and transform our worlds through critical interpretive inquiry. The second decade charts a promising future. What might ICQI and QI look like at its 20th anniversary? What should the mandate be for the next decade? What have we learned? Where do we go next? What would it mean to return to where we started, to begin anew, as if we had only just begun?

The 11th Congress will be built around the changes that are occurring in the field of qualitative inquiry (QI) and at the congress, since it was launched as an alternative site for collaboration and discourse. It is time to take stock, time to go back to the future, time to ask if it is time to begin constructing a new critical qualitative inquiry, a time to undo the past, time to re-think taken-for-granted paradigms, frameworks, epistemologies, methodologies, ethics and the politics of inquiry. It is time to assess the major changes that have taken place over the last decade, and the last century. Scholars will have the opportunity to explore a decade of change, while foregrounding qualitative inquiry as a shared, global endeavor.

As in previous congresses, panels and sessions will take up such topics as: the politics of evidence, right and left pole epistemologies, the meanings and uses of data, new models of science, new analytics of analysis and representation, the ethics of inquiry, public policy discourse, tenure, publishing, advocacy, partisanship, decolonizing inquiry. Contributors are invited to experiment with traditional and new methodologies, with new presentational formats (ethnodrama, performance, found poetry, autoethnography, fiction).

Such work will offer guidelines and exemplars concerning advocacy, inquiry and social justice concerns. Our work can be used to help clarify competing definitions of social problems; expose sites of injustice, suggest alternative moral points of view, explore new ways of connecting personal troubles to public issues. Delegates will be able to form coalitions, to engage in debate on how qualitative research can be used to advance the causes of social justice, while addressing racial, ethnic, gender and environmental disparities in education, welfare and healthcare.

We share a commitment to change the world, to engage in ethical work that makes a positive difference. As critical scholars our task is to bring the past and the future into the present, allowing us to engage realistic utopian pedagogies of hope.

Yours sincerely,

Norman K. Denzin
Congress Director

Town Hall Meeting on Academic Freedom

Facilitator: Roy Ruckdeschel, Emeritus Professor, Public Health and Social Justice
Saint Louis, Missouri

In response to recent actions taken by the Administration at the University of Illinois the 2015 Congress of Qualitative Inquiry is devoting a town hall meeting to the topics of the academy, freedom of speech, tenure, faculty appointments and academic boycotts. Since its founding, ICQI has been a forum for critical conversations about the role of scholarship in advancing qualitative inquiry as a democratic practice. The tenets of freedom of speech and academic freedom are integral to these discussions. We stand by our mission to be leaders in fostering research and pedagogy that engages the pressing social issues of our time. Our university community has mobilized to support the tenets of academic freedom and intellectual integrity that form the DNA of higher education.

Twelfth International Congress of Qualitative Inquiry

May 18-21, 2016

QUALITATIVE INQUIRY IN NEOLIBERAL TIMES

We shall not cease from exploration/ And the end of all our exploring/ Will be to arrive where we started/ And know the place for the first time (T. S. Elliot, No 4 of Four Quartets, 1942).

Keynotes:

Qualitative methodology and the new materialisms: do we need a new conceptual vocabulary?

Maggie MacLure, Manchester Metropolitan University, UK

I consider the implications for qualitative methodology of the recent (re)turn to materiality across the social sciences and humanities. The 'new materialisms' promise to go beyond the old antagonisms of nature and culture, science and the social, discourse and matter. But they also challenge core assumptions: that agency and consciousness are the prerogative of human subjects; that data wait to be animated by human interest; that interpretation, understanding, analysis and explanation are fundamental to qualitative inquiry. Even critique itself has been challenged as 'the privileged key for reading the modern epoch' (Stengers). I consider an alternative conceptual vocabulary for qualitative method drawn from new materialist thought. This might include infection, adventure, dosage, experiment, wonder, affect and interest. Perhaps the most urgent question for critical qualitative research, and for the Congress in particular is this: does criticality, as the work of intentional, human, interpreting agents, still have a place in our theories and our research practices? And if not, what shall we do?

All I Really Need to Know About Qualitative Research I Learned in High School

Johnny Saldaña, Arizona State University

Robert Fulgham's classic essay, "All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten," is the inspiration for this keynote address. Johnny Saldaña draws humorous parallels between high school culture and the world of qualitative inquiry. Such cultural components of adolescent education include cliques, bullies, popularity, learning new subjects, and first-time experiences. This address examines how qualitative researchers replicate in hybrid forms typical aspects of high school life through their methodologies, epistemologies, publications, leaders, and interpersonal relationships. The satiric comparison of two cultural worlds suggests that the field of qualitative inquiry is still in adolescent development with much more growth yet a promising future ahead.

The theme of the 2016 Congress is "Qualitative Inquiry in Neoliberal Times". Critical qualitative research is under assault. Qualitative scholars struggle to obtain tenure, their research is often underfunded, the journals they publish in are given low impact scores. Scholars around the world, inside and outside the academy, struggle against the regulatory practices of neoliberalism. The 12th International Congress offers scholars the opportunity to foreground, interrogate and resist these practices, to engage in a politics of advocacy, pro and con, to form coalitions, to engage in debate on how qualitative researchers can resist the pressures of neoliberalism. The Congress will be an arena for advancing the causes of social justice, while addressing racial, ethnic, gender and environmental disparities in education, welfare and healthcare.

Sessions will take up such topics as: tenure battles, redefinitions of the public university, preoccupations with neoliberal accountability metrics (journal impact factors, teaching evaluations, research funding scores), attacks on freedom of speech, threats to shared governance, the politics of advocacy, value-free inquiry, partisanship, the politics of evidence, alternatives to evidence-based models, public policy discourse, indigenous research ethics, decolonizing inquiry.

Scholars come to the Congress to resist, to celebrate community, to experiment with traditional and new methodologies, with new technologies of representation. Together we seek to develop guidelines and exemplars concerning advocacy, inquiry and social justice concerns. We share a commitment to change the world, to engage in ethical work what makes a positive difference. As critical scholars our task is to bring the past and the future into the present, allowing us to engage realistic utopian pedagogies of hope.

Scholars from around the world have accepted the challenge to gather together in common purpose to collectively imagine creative and critical responses to a global community in crisis. The Twelfth International Congress offers us an opportunity to experiment, take risks, explore new presentational forms, share experiences, problems and hopes concerning the conduct of critical qualitative inquiry in this time of global uncertainty.

A Day in Spanish and Portuguese

Un día en Español y Portugués

ADISP 2015

Presentación

Un Día en Español y Portugués (A Day in Spanish and Portuguese, ADISP), es un encuentro anual que se realiza en el marco del International Congress of Qualitative Inquiry (ICQI). En ADISP se busca propiciar la reflexión y el intercambio de experiencias de investigación cualitativa entre las comunidades de habla hispana y portuguesa, con el fin de crear lazos y redes de conocimiento alrededor de la investigación cualitativa, sus propuestas y retos. Es un espacio para compartir, desde una mirada Iberoamericana, el quehacer de la investigación y sus proyecciones a la comunidad internacional presente en ICQI.

Año a año, Un Día en Español y Portugués, se consolida como el espacio académico y profesional para dar cuenta de los intereses de investigación, así como reflexionar sobre el estado actual de la Investigación Cualitativa en Iberoamérica. Les invitamos cordialmente a hacer sus aportes para que este Grupo de Interés Especial (Special Interest Group), se enriquezca con perspectivas críticas, vinculadas a la experiencia de investigación en nuestros países. Visítenos en redes sociales: @ADISP_ICQI o al fanpage en Facebook, o escríbanos al correo: adisp.icqi@gmail.com

Agradecemos la inmensa colaboración de Aitor Gómez, Alejandra Martínez, César Cisneros, Nathalie Tiberghien, Yesica Durán y Pamela Zapata, quienes han hecho posible esta versión de ADISP. También agradecemos a todos los participantes y voluntarios para la coordinación de los diferentes paneles. Finalmente, un agradecimiento especial a James Salvo y, por supuesto, a Norman Denzin.

Versiones anteriores de ADISP

La historia de ADISP ha sido posible a sus versiones anteriores. Reconocemos los valiosos aportes de sus gestores para que ADISP sea una realidad:

- Coni Chapela, Carolina Martínez (2007) (ADIS). Universidad Autónoma Metropolitana-Xochimilco.
- Fernando Peñaranda y Gloria Molina (2008) (ADIS). Universidad de Antioquia
- Nelson Felice, Sergio Carvalho, Rosana Onoko (2009 - ADISP).
- Aldo Merlini, Alejandra Martínez (2010).
- Amaia Sáenz-de-Ormijana, Carlos Calderon, Aitor Gómez (2011).
- Martha Leticia Cabello, Héctor Mendoza, Magda García-Quintanilla (2012).
- Elizabeth Aguirre, Jesús Burciaga, Lilia Carmona, Isabel Lozano (2013).
- Luis Felipe González, Sandra Aya y Diana Laverde (2014). Facultad de Psicología Universidad Santo Tomás (Bogotá – Colombia).
- Luis Felipe González y Yesica Durán, Universidad Santo Tomás; Aitor Gómez González, Universidad de Barcelona y Pamela Zapata Sepúlveda, Universidad de Tarapacá, Arica, Chile (2015)

Session Organizers and Audience Discussion Leaders: Gaile S. Cannella, Mirka Koro-Ljungberg, Arizona State University, Yvonna S. Lincoln, Texas A&M University

Panel members sharing a tool, strategy, concept, theory, person, lens, material example that has helped in the rethinking and doing of methodological work differently addressing some of the following questions:

How do we study in ways that speak to our critical research goals and collaborations around justice, difference, ethics, and equity?

What does all this have to do with our definitions of, and tools/strategies/practices used within, critical qualitative inquiry?

How might traditional methodologies be modified and used in critical ways?

How can we break free from neo-positivist, colonizing, and/or oversimplified methodological practices, as well as uncritical forms of interpretation?

How do critical scholars avoid creating researcher power for themselves as the more “advanced/progressive” voice for justice, equity, and decolonization whether using traditional, reconceptualized, or “new” methodologies?

How do these critical methodologies address contemporary power contexts/material circumstances/lives and the immediate need for just transformations?

Panelists:

Community-Based Action Research

Community-based action research is old-fashioned social work where members of privileged classes seek to partner with persons whose situations create vulnerabilities in terms of resources, income, health, education, and access to power. In this roundtable, we will draw upon the experiences and expertise of Social Work Day participants to help us think about how we can live the values of social justice, care, respect for dignity and worth, and autonomy when we seek to produce knowledge and influence social policies on behalf of persons and communities characterized by lack of resources and political powerlessness, as well as resilience processes. Vanessa Jara-Labarthé, University of Tarapaca; Jason Brown, Western University; D. Crystal Coles, Virginia Commonwealth University; Jason Sawyer, Norfolk State University; Jane Gilgun, University of Minnesota, Twin Cities

QUALITATIVE DATA ANALYSIS

A WORLD OF DATA IN YOUR HAND ATLAS.ti 7

The Next Generation of QDA Software. Fast. Intuitive. Comprehensive.

With ATLAS.ti you hold the world of your data in your hand. Use ATLAS.ti's unique margin area now also for video and audio. Analyze all your data side-by-side in multi-window frames. Get an overview of your findings through interactive network views that allow you to graphically represent the interconnections between data units.

Use word cloud views, co-occurrence trees and matrices, code frequency tables, dynamic query tools and many other functions to explore your data in meaningful and creative ways.

Everything is easy and intuitive.
